

New User? Register | Sign In | Help

Make Y! Your Homepage

Yahoo! Mail

YAHOO! NEWS

Search

Web Search

HOME U.S. BUSINESS WORLD ENTERTAINMENT SPORTS TECH POLITICS SCIENCE HEALTH OPINION MOST POPULAR

Video Photos The Upshot The Starting Point Local Odd News Comics Weather Travel Vitality Who Knew?

Search All News News Search TRENDING NOW: hiccup girl chelsea handler allen iverson brock lesnar brett favre iran

Ask America: Vote and comment on the hot issues of 2010 Tue Oct 26, 4:00 pm ET

51 49 0 205 230 0 Local Content Headlines for Sunnyvale

View More

Hawaii beach garbage recycled as vacuum cleaner

AP Associated Press

Buzz up! 24 votes | Share 414 retweet 13 Email Print

By AUDREY McAVOY, Associated Press Writer - Wed Oct 27, 9:57 am ET

HONOLULU - There's a story behind the blue, white and green plastic covering the surface of the Pacific Ocean vacuum cleaner. They're tiny bits of plastic collected from one of Hawaii's dirtiest beaches, Kahuku, where waves dump trash from the Pacific all day long.

The machine made by Electrolux AB is fully functional and can suck up dirt from a rug like any other vacuum. But the company said it wants the device to serve as an object that provokes a conversation about the large volumes of plastic trash that are polluting the world's oceans.

The Stockholm-based company has also made four other vacuums, each from plastic trash collected in the Indian Ocean and the Mediterranean, North and Baltic seas. None of the five are for commercial sale.

Cecilia Nord, vice president for sustainability and environmental affairs at Electrolux's floor care and small appliances division, said many groups are doing their best to clean the ocean and beaches of plastic.

But the problem keeps growing because people continue to consume more plastic without recycling it afterward, she said.

"We - as a big manufacturer with a global reach - can start a debate and hopefully can contribute to addressing the root cause,"

AP - In this Oct. 15, 2010 photo provided by Electrolux AB, a vacuum cleaner made with plastic trash that ...

Slideshow: Recycled Plastic Vacuum Cleaner

Nord said.

Electrolux received its Pacific Ocean plastic from a Hawaii-based volunteer group that cleans up Kahuku beach once a week. The remote shoreline is one of Oahu's dirtiest, in part because current flows tend to deposit trash on that side of the island.

"We can be there on any day and see it coming in on each wave," said Suzanne Frazer, president and co-founder of Beach Environmental Awareness Campaign Hawaii.

Garbage also quickly accumulates at Kahuku because the beach is behind two private properties and can't be easily visited by beachgoers who pick up trash on Hawaii's more populated shorelines every day.

Plastic breaks down into smaller pieces slowly over time but doesn't ever completely disappear. In the ocean, currents carry the small bits to areas where massive gyres of plastic garbage have formed.

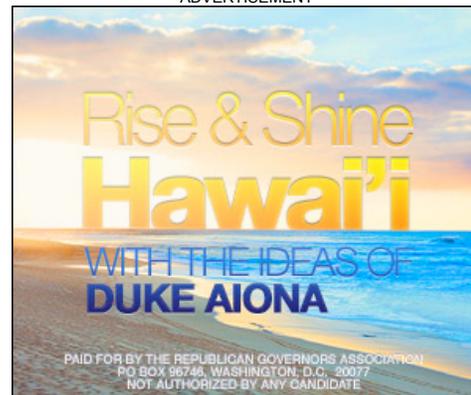

One spot between Hawaii and California the size of Texas has been dubbed the "Great Pacific Garbage Patch." Researchers recently found a similar plastic trash gyre in the Atlantic between Bermuda and Portugal's Azores islands.

Top Stories

- Republicans, heading for big gains, ready agenda
- Death toll in Indonesian tsunami, volcano tops 300
- Obama campaigning quietly from the White House
- Va man charged in fake bomb plot against DC subway
- Impact of Health Issues on the Campaign Trail and in Office
- France's parliament approves pension reform
- Prosthetic leg discovered in search for NC girl
- Visa 4Q profit up 51 percent as card use rises
- Health Tip: Taking NSAIDs
- Fresh iPhone Apps for Oct. 27: Galaxy on Fire 2, Summit - Basecamp, Cars iManager

More Top Stories »

ADVERTISEMENT

sponsored links

- hawaii beach
$62 Save 60% Plus Kids Stay Free! 99 Hour Sale, Book Hawaii Today
BookIt.com/Hawaii
- Expedia.com Official Site
Now Save on All Your Travel With Our Exclusive Best Price Guarantee.
www.Expedia.com
- Hawaii Weddings
Hawaii wedding photographer, artistic style, view online portfolio

Y! NEWS ★ 2010 MIDTERM ELECTIONS

ASK AMERICA
THE MIDTERM ELECTION NEWS FORUM

created by
YAHOO!
NEWS

Ask America: Learn. Listen. Be heard.

Ask America Election forum The Fast Fix Map snapshot

Seabirds eat the plastic bits — particularly ones that are a bright red or orange — thinking they're squid, fish eggs or other food.

Some Laysan albatross, a seabird that nests at Midway atoll northwest of the main Hawaiian islands, die of starvation with their stomachs full of plastic.

Electrolux's Pacific vacuum has only a few red or orange pieces because marine animals have eaten most of the brightly colored plastic trash pieces before they wash ashore.

Carey Morishige, outreach coordinator for the marine debris program at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, said people should use less plastic and reuse and recycle what they do use.

"If it's still going in, we're still going to have to clean it up," Morishige said. "The ultimate solution is going to be in stopping this stuff from getting into the ocean in the first place."

Follow Yahoo! News on Twitter, become a fan on Facebook

Buzz up! 24 votes | Share 414 retweet 13 Email Print

Explore Related Content

Photo: In this Oct. 15, 2010 photo provided by Electrolux AB, a vacuum ...

Photo: Double Eagle V, the balloon that Ron Clark ... the Pacific Ocean

Photo: In this Oct. 15, 2010 photo provided by Electrolux AB, vacuum ...

Photo in Slideshow: Astronauts aboard the International Space ... the Pacific Ocean

Editor's Picks

More Slideshows »

Hunt for survivors after Mount Merapi erupts

Storm brings wind, rain to Midwest, South

Original Darth Vader costume up for sale

Photo Highlight of the Day

More...

Entertainment Video: Sam Worthington ponders an 'Avatar' sequel AP

Entertainment Video: Rushing to the Altar on 'Better With You' ABC News

Entertainment Video: Seal Talks 'Commitment' ABC News

<http://www.morganhawaii.com>

Featured

Learn. Listen. Be heard
Join the Web's social-media hub for the 2010 election.
» Cast your votes

iPhone app: The Scoop
A free and constantly updated insiders' guide to New York City.
» More from NYTimes.com

Postal Service primer
How much was the first U.S. stamp?
» More Who Knew? videos

Top Stories on Facebook
Are you on Facebook? Join our page for top stories!
» Join our Facebook page here

100% RSS feed free
Follow Yahoo! News on Twitter to get the top stories.
» Follow @YahooNews here!

Education

Say Goodbye To Your Cube
Tired of being stuck in cubicle prison? Check out these 7 cube-free careers!

Want To Make A Career Change?
See 5 transition-friendly careers with great salaries. One starts at $47,000!

ADVERTISEMENT